Last November, Judy visited her sister Frida in Mexico City. They spent the day in a big plaza called “El Zocalo”, which is the main square in Mexico City. People come to El Zocalo to celebrate Independence Day. Judy and Frida also visited Xochimilco Lake and traveled on typical canoes called “Trajineras”. That day, they tasted some delicious tacos, tamales and burritos. The first week of November, the city celebrates the Day of the Death, it is a day when Mexicans honor the lives of the loved ones who have passed away.

Judy also visited her cousin Martha in New York City. Together they visited Central Park, located in the middle of New York City. This huge park has a Zoo, two Lakes and several Waterfalls. It is the most visited park in the United States. They also visited the Statue of Liberty and took some pictures there. The Statue represents liberty, and was built in 1886, it was a gift from the French people to Americans. People celebrate July 4th, United States Independence Day there. At the end of the day they ate the famous hot dogs and hamburgers in Wall Street, as the people of New York do every day.
